It will be seen from the report of the Postmaster General that the Post-Office Department still continues to depend on the Treasury, as it has been compelled to do so for several years past, for an important portion of the means o growth and extending its operations. Their rapid growth and expansion are shown by a decennial statement of the number of post offices, and the length of post roads, commencing with the year 1827. In that year there were 7000 post-offices, in 1837, 11,177, in 1847, 15,146; and in 1857, they number 26,586. In this year 1724 post-offices have been established and 704 discontinued, leaving a net incresse of 1124. The postmasters of 368 offices are ap pointed by the President.

The length of post roads in 1897 was 105,286 miles; in 1887 141,242 miles; in 1807, 103,816 miles; and in the year 1807 there are 242,001 miles of post road, including 27,000 miles of railroad, on which the mails are transported.

The expenditures of the department for the fiscal year ending on the 3-th of June, 1857, as adjusted by the Auditor, amounted to $11,507,770. To defray these expenditures there was to the credit of the department, on the in July, 1856, the sum of $789,589, the gross revenue of year, including the annual allowances for the transportion of free mail matter, produced $8 (55,05); and the mainder was supplied by the appropriation from the treatury of $2.250,000 granted by the act of Congress approv. August 18, 1856, and by the appropriation of $666,858 may by the set of March 8,1857, leaving $252,763 to be carried. to the credit of the department in the accounts of the current year. I commend to your consideration the report of the department in relation to the establisment of the overland mail route from the Mississippi viver to Bas Francisco, California The route was selected with my full concurrence as the one in my judgment best palettla to attain the important objects contempated by Congress.

The late disast our mentary revultion may have one good effect should it cause both the government and the people to return to the practice of a wire and justiciou economy boto in public and private expenditures.

An overflowing treasury has led to habits of procignity and extra agance in our l-gislation. It has indugress to make large appropriations to objects for watch they never would have provided had it been necessary to raise the amount of revenue required to meet them by ob-creased taxation or by loans. We are now comp. Hed to pause in our career, and to scrutinize our expenditur with the utmo t vigilance; and in performing this duty, pledge my co-operation to the extent of my constitutions It ought to be observed at the same time that true public economy does not consist in withholding the means neces sary to accomplish important national objects intrusted to us by the constitution and especially such as may be neces-sary for the common defence. In the present crisis of the country it is our duty to confine our appropriations to ob ects of this character, unless in cases where justice to in div duals may demand a different course. In ail cases care ought to be taken that the money granted by Congress shall be faithfully and economically applied. Under the Federal Constitution, "every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate shall before it becomes a law," be approved and signed by the President; and, if not approved, he shall icturn it with his objections to that house in which it originated. In order to perform this high and responsible duty, sufficient time must be allowed the President to read and examine every hill pre-ented to him for approval. Unless this be afforded, the Constitution becomes a dead letter in this particular; and even worse, it becomes a means of deception. Our constituents, seeing the President's approval and signature attached to each not of 'ongress, are induced to believe that he has actually performed this duty, when for touth, nothing is, in many cares, more unfounded. From the practice of Congress, such an examination of each bill as the constitution requires has been rendered impossible. The most important business of each session is ented to the President is either to violate the constitu tional duty which he owes to the people, and approve bills which for want of time, it is impossible he should have exhis rejusal to do this, subject the c and individuals to great loss and inconvenience. Besides, a practice has grown up of late years to legislate in appropriation bills, at the last hours of the session.

on new and important subjects. This practice constrains the President either to suffer measures to become laws which he does not approve, or to incur the risk of stopping the wheels of the govern neat by voting an appropriation bill. Former y, such bills were confined to specific approprintions for carrying into "Ject existing laws and the wel -established policy of the country, and little was then required by the President for their examination. For my own part, I have deliberately determined that I shall approve no bill which I have not examined, and it will be a case of extreme and most urgent necessity which shall ever induce me to depart from this rule. I therefor respectfully but earnestly recommend that the two huses will allow the President at least two days previous to the adjournment of each session within which no bill sha'l be presented to him for approval. Under the existing joint rule one day is allowed; but this rule has been hitherto so constantly suspended in practice that important bills continue to be presented to him up till the very last moments of the session.

In a large majority of cases no great public inconven ience can arise from the want of time to examine their pro-visions because the constitution has declared that if a bill be presented to the President within the last ten days of the se sion he is not required to return it either with an ap proval or with a veto, ' in which case it shall no, be a law It may then lie over and be taken up and passed at the next session. Great inconvenience would only be experi enced in regard to appropriation bills; but fortunately, under the late excellent law allowing a salary instead of per diem to the members of Congress, the expense and in convenience of a called session will be greatly reduced, I cannot conclude without commending to your favora-ble consideration the interests of this district. Without a representative on the floor of Congress, they have for this very reason peculiar claims upon our just regard. To this I know, from my long acquaintance with them, they are eminently entitled. JAMES BUCHANAN.

LATER FROM UTAH. The St. Louis Republican of the 9th say:

So you may expect to hear of buttles, and rumors of battles, from this time forward. The troops of Uncle Sam can, no doubt, had their own, but up to this time it is admitted that they meet Brigham Young and his forces under infavorable circumstances. THE PORK TRADE FOR THE WEEK. [From the Cincinnati Price-Current, 9th inst.]

The current price of hogs has not essentially changed during the week, but the market has partaken of that idegitimate character, which has made it quite irregular, and made prices partake more of the fancy character than of fact. The great bulk of the business done during the week was by drovers and owners of bogs, who, not satisfied with the current prices, have arrived at the conclusion that there is money in pork at $5, and are thefore packing, not only their own, but have bought quite extensively with the same object in view, and in this way prices have been kept up, because the amount of logs to be had outside is comparatively small, and not more than what is needed to fill the current orders. Packers, as a general thing, are holding back and exhibiting a greater amount of caution an indifference than is usual at this season in other

The weather as a general thing, has been unfavorable, being with little exception too warm for packing, and yesterday the temperature was in fact far above a safe point, with a damp and sultry atmosphere; and the market closed languid, though it was not easy to purchase 200 lbs. hogs at $5, which is the rate packers seem willing to pay, but would not operate largely at this rate. All the houses are busy except the foreign ones, chiefly on commission

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE. This body assembled at Frankfort on Monday, and was organized by the election of the following

SENATE. Speaker, John Q. A. King, of McCracken; Clerk J. Hussell Hawkins, of Franklin; Assistant Clerk Mr. Saiduth, of Bath: Sergeant-at-Arms. J. W. Pruett, of Frankfort; Door-keeper, W. P. Watson, of Frankfort. The members of the Senate were all present, and the ballotings were strictly partisan-the American

cratic candidates, eighteen. Speaker, Dr. Dan'l P. White, of Greene; Principal Clerk, Clinton McClarty, of Daviess; Assistant Clerk. W. J. M. Wilburn, of Kenton; Sergeant-at-Arms, W. N. Robb, of Favette; Door-keeper, A. P. Rendall, candidates receiving twenty votes, and the Demoof Henderson - all Democrats. As in the Senate, the vote for officers of the House wes strictly partizan-the Democrats casting sixtythree votes, and the Americans thirty-four. Three members of the House did not answer to their names. It is generally understood that the Senate, in which branch the Americans have a majority of four, will refuse to go into an election for United States Senator. The prominent Democratic candidates for that office are Boyd, Powell, Guthrie and THE BERLIN FREE LOVERS AGAIN-THE MATTER TAKEN IN HAND BY THE LA-DIES-A BONFIRE.

From the Sandusky Reguter of Friday. A correspondent from Berlin given us the particulars of a racy occurrence there, on Wednesday of this week. It will be remembered that one of the stipulations with Tyler and his fellow prisoners. during the recent legal proceedings here, was that the press of their Free Love Organ, The Social Revolutionist, should be taken out of the county .--Our correspondent states that instead of being thus carried away, it was simply removed from the Davis House to the "Free Love Farm," where Frank Barry and a few others of "the fraternity" still remain, (the sale on foreclosure of mortgage not having yet been made,) and another number of the publication printed. On Wednesday Barry started for the Post Office at "the Heights," with several bushels of copies of The Revolutionist for mailing. The ladies of the village had heard of his coming, and prepared to testify their appreciation of his perseverance under difficulties," by a reception. They accordingly assembled in the vicinity of the Post Office, and awaited Barry's arrival; having previousy procured a quantity of straw and shavings, for use in the ceremonies. Presently Frank drove up to the office and proceeded to hitch his horse,-While engaged at this, the ladies made a rush for his wagon, and before he could realize what was transpiring, they had seized all the load (which was in bags) and were making up street at Oregon speed. Frank started a desperate chase in pursuit, but when he overtook the fair despoilers was under so great headway that he unlockily stumbled over the the bags and fell. In an instant some of the stronger of the ladies had seized his long beard, held him down while the rest bore away their prize. And in a few moments more, the prostrate captive was made to look upon his entire edition of The Social Revolutionist ascending in the smoke of a bonfire. As the fire began to blaze, the bells of the village began to ring, and the balance of the inhabitants came forth to look also. The burning mass was faithfully attended, and kept stirred up by the ladies, until the last leaf of the edition was cousumed; the poor captive disciple of "freedom for the affections" looking on, a perfect picture of despair.

But the "end was not yet." The prisoner had been released, when a cry was raised, "Catch him and shear him!" Accordingly a rush was made for the poor fellow, but he was satisfied and anxious "for quits," and "struck a bee-line" for his wagon. He was heartily pursued, but with speed quickened by desperation, and practice, gained the wagon first, sprang in, and was off as fast as Free Love horseflesh could carry him. The ladies pursued no further but returned to their homes. And thus, it is presumed, endeth the last chapter in the history of Free Love literature, in Berlin Exclusion of an American Whaleman from Russian Waters. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 .- The report that Russia has issued a decree prohibiting American whaling ships from entering their waters in pursuit of their gigantic game, will produce a profound sensation. The interests affected by this ukase are of a national character and every way entitled to a national tection. The amount of capital invested in the whaling business is over forty millions. If the whalemen are excluded from the bays and islands of their Asiatic and American possessions, it will destroy their business-a business which has, in fact, been almost exclusively American from the commencement, before the revolution.

[Cor. Balt. Sun. ANOTHER CHESS CONTEST .- The interest of American chess amateurs since the closing of the Grand Congress of American players has been kept up by the challenge of Mr. Paul Morphy, of New Orleansthe winner of the first prize at that trial-to any member of the New York Club, at the odds of "Pawn and Move," Mr. Morphy's cartel, having been ignored by the playing members of the Club, was accepted by Mr. Charles 3. Stanly, who for so many years held the scepter of cis-Atlantic chessplaying. The terms of the match in course of play between these gentlemen are: The first winner of seven games to be declared the conqueror. Play to be conducted alternately at the Chess Club in Twelfth street, and at Bryan's Gallery, in Broadway, where, as we are given to understand, the state of the odds up to last evening, were as follows: Drawn, 1; Morphy, 3; Stanley, nil.

[N. Y. Times, of Friday. INOUEST .- Sad Fate .- The record of the Coroner's proceedings yesterday showed that an an inquest had been held upon the body of Auguste Girard, a native of Havre, France, and that the verdict was "found drowned"-a couple of words which form the only epitaph of many a wayfarer whose rugged pathway of life leads to the finale of a watery oblivion of the "ills to which flesh is heir;" in this case, however, there is something beyond the record to be chronicled-facts which invest this case with an interest above that usually attached to the subjects which pass through the coroner's professional hands. Deceased was the only son of a wealthy sailing master of Havre, and formed an attachment for a beautiful girl, but poor and in a lower walk of social life than that in which birth or means placed

The father strenuously opposed the consummation of his attachment by marriage, and forbade intercourse between him and the object of his affections. In consequence of this treatment, young Girard left his father's house and embarked as a common sailor on board the ship "Kate Dyer," bound for this port, She arrived some days since, and on Monday morning the subject of this little narration, in attempting to get on board, after having been up into the city, fell into the river and was di wned.
